Representatives of both employers and employees were heard, and also a number of witnesses who were neither employers nor employees. The strike of the machinists was settled in May, 1900, and two witnesses, representing the employers and employees respectively, gave testimony at Washington soon after regarding the conditions of the settlement. The building trades lockout was much more prolonged, but was practically ended by an agreement between the contractors and the carpenters unions in February, 1901. At that time a representative of the contractors gave evidence in Washington, and Professor Taylor, of the Chicago Commons, who had been active in attempts to bring about a settlement of...
